EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Strong recognition when asked by name, limited organic discovery for both brands

Recognition is near perfect but organic discovery leaves room for improvement; brand websites are rarely cited in unbranded queries and YouTube dominates social influence.

Buyer questions. Each question from the perspective of one of six buyer personas, including those shopping for an occasion, on a budget, for a first bottle, as a gift, etc. Each brand has its own 100 questions.

Citations are scrubbed and analyzed. Every cited link is resolved, read, and classified by source type, then matched to whether the brand appears in the answer. Sources rank by the share of answers citing them.

Agents compared on the same questions. Every page weights the six agents equally, 100 answers each per brand. The appendix breaks every figure out by agent.

One pass. Collected between October 26 and November 2, 2026. A baseline to be re-run monthly or quarterly to identify trends and inform marketing strategy iteratively.

RECOMMENDATIONS · PREVIEW OF THE PHASE 2 ROADMAP

Six actions per brand, prioritized by observed gaps and potential impact

Directional only. Phase 2 elaborates in detail including technical markup, web copy, FAQ content, media targets, etc. with the measures to re-run.

AZZARO

1. Rewrite the Most Wanted product pages so each concentration reads differently
   Agents favor the Parfum (23 of 31 Most Wanted answers) over the never-named EDT Intense, and the EDP Intense page titles itself Eau de Parfum.
2. Supply product-page copy to Ulta, Sephora, and Macy's
   The stores the agents cite most in answers to branded questions (73, 71, and 66 of 300).
3. Pitch Fragrantica's editors with corrections to the Most Wanted entries
   Fragrantica is in 63% of answers to unbranded questions and 85% of branded. The brand does not control the entries, which are editorial and fed by brand submissions. The main entry shows no launch year and no concentration.
4. Fix azzaro.com's redirects and add pages that answer buyer questions
   The site appears in 1 of 300 answers to unbranded questions. First redirect the 8 legacy URLs that return 404.
5. Pitch the Wanted anniversary story to highly cited outlets
   Esquire, Who What Wear, and GQ are often cited in answers to unbranded questions, but only a fraction of those pages name Azzaro. Pitch those outlets plus the specialist titles FashionBeans, The Last Spritz, and Luxury Columnist.
6. Partner with the YouTube channels the agents cite
   YouTube powers 19% of answers to unbranded questions. Hamza Saab, Chad Secrets, and Gents Scents lead the channels cited.

RALPH LAUREN FRAGRANCES

1. Add buyer FAQ pages for Polo 67, Polo Blue, and Ralph's Club
   On ralphlaurenfragrances.com. Asked without a name, 9 of 300 answers bring Ralph Lauren in and no line leads it: Polo 67 3, Polo Blue 2, Ralph's Club 2. Each FAQ answers the occasion, comparison, and concentration questions buyers ask, so agents can quote the brand's page.
2. Supply product-page copy to Macy's, Sephora, Ulta, and Walmart
   The stores the agents cite most in answers to branded questions (69, 61, and 49 of 300), with Walmart at 45. Retailer guides on scento.com and scentbird.com go through the same retail relationships.
3. Pitch Fragrantica's editors with updates to the Polo 67 and Ralph's Club entries
   Fragrantica is in 65% of answers to unbranded questions and 83% of branded. The brand does not control the entries, so the lever is supplying launch dates, concentrations, and notes to the editors who do.
4. Merge the ralphlauren.com fragrance pages into ralphlaurenfragrances.com
   The agents split 835 links across 298 pages on the two sites: product pages on ralphlaurenfragrances.com, the homepage on ralphlauren.com. Redirect each ralphlauren.com fragrance page to its twin so one page per fragrance collects the citations.
5. Pitch the cited press for a lead placement
   FashionBeans, Esquire, Who What Wear, and GQ already list Ralph Lauren on pages the agents cite. Yet only a fraction of the corresponding AI answers actually name the brand. Pitch the editors to put Polo 67 or Ralph's Club at the top of the list.
6. Fund content with the YouTube channels the agents cite
   YouTube is in 18% of answers to unbranded questions. Hamza Saab, Gents Scents, and Rotten Rebel lead the channels cited.

ABOUT INNATE C3

An AI-native communications consultancy

Nathan Strauss

FOUNDER AND PRINCIPAL

Nathan brings nearly two decades of experience: communications leadership at Amazon and AWS, global head of corporate communications at Tiffany & Co. through its $16B acquisition by LVMH, and reputation measurement at GE and IBM. In 2025, Nathan founded innate c3 as a communications consultancy with its own data collection stack, so the datasets it analyzes are complete and verified. Work spans luxury and beauty, consumer retail, venture capital, physical AI, and data center silicon.
